BEGGING FOR TRUSTEES.

REPORTS from every section of the State go to show that nobody wants to take on honors as school trustees and that in many districts the office goes begging for responsible men or women to fill it. The fact that trustees receive no compensation and that the average taxpayer is unconscious of the onerous duties entrusted to school trustees is the secret at the bottom of the diffidence of citizens to shoulder this burden. The next session of the legislature should take steps to amend the school laws so there will be some compensation for trustees who devote a large part of their time to providing an education for the children of their neighbors. Especially should this be the case in districts having more than ten teachers employed. Trustees should be paid and there is no good reason for a perpetuation of the system that has grown into an abuse. It was all right in the days following the demonization of silver when distress overtook the leading industry of Nevada and the State administration was regulated so that every possible item of expense would be eliminated but, now that the State has outgrown the necessity for economy that can only be regarded as parsimonious, something should be done to requite the trustees for their services. Every other branch of the government is recognized by salaried officers, some of whom have not a tithe of the responsibilities of the average school trustee. There is no valid reason for asking any one to assume these duties without an offer of a small compensation.

OBLIGATIONS OF ARBOR DAY.

NEXT Friday is Arbor Day, specially dedicated to the schools of Nevada with the idea of fostering a spirit of beauty and a love for the shade that is always appreciated in this climate. Few persons are aware that Nevada has the smallest available supply of timber or forest area of any State in the Union. Reports of the forest service show that if the entire wooded lands of the State were grouped in a body there would not be sufficient trees or shrubbery to cover more than half an inch square on a six foot map. This is a valuable object lesson that should be studied and impressed on the minds of young and old to the end that they may plant a few trees to break the monotony of the landscape in the immediate vicinity of their homes.

Silviculture should be one of the leading industries of Nevada. Every householder should be encouraged to extend windbreaks, plant hedges and wood lots with quick growing timber suited to the climate. There is no use attempting maples, eucalyptus or cottonwoods on the deserts as they are not adapted and only live a lingering death.

In the farming counties there should be a studied and general effort in tree planting, as the growth of timber means more to the farmer than it does to the stockman or miner. To him it means protection from inclement weather and a safeguard for his crops during the seasons when high winds threaten to blow his products off the earth. The absence of timber from Nevada is one cause of the high winds and the constant dust storms that are so unpleasant at certain seasons and any action that may be taken to abate this evil would mean enhancement of values and improvement of home conditions.

Arbor Day should be a day of general and generous tree planting and it is unfortunate that the governor did not make a stronger plea for a more universal observance. If any one is interested in tracing the advantages of forest culture they are invited to write the presidents of the State agricultural colleges of Nebraska and Kansas, both treeless States that have passed the barren era by systematic arboriculture.

A BOOSTER'S FUNERAL.

YESTERDAY we stood upon historic C street of Virginia City and watched a funeral cortege with stately step and slow, headed by a brass band playing a funeral dirge, march slowly through the streets to the depot bearing in honor the remains of one who had helped to make the history of that city. Of the boosters who have stood by the camp through the hours of gladness and the days of sorrow he was one of the foremost and the words that he has said for the Comstock and for Nevada will never die.

Guaranteed Cough Remedy

When you treat a cough you want to cure it, not merely "drug" it into silence temporarily. The almost universal custom of placing opiates or other narcotic drugs in cough remedies makes it hard for people to select one that is safe to use and certain in results. Our is such a remedy. It contains no dangerous drugs and is a safe family cough remedy, which can be used freely by children or adults. When you need a cough remedy, get this harmless one. You'll adopt it as the one to keep in your medicine cabinet.

His heart was filled with gladness and he knew no such word as fail, and every thought was for a greater and a grander mining camp beneath the shadow of Mount Davidson.

Last night they took the body of Nevada's Con Ahern to where the ocean rolls to sleep beneath a foreign sand. It seemed as if they were one which belonged to us always, for had he not given his life to the Sagebrush State and there should he not rest in peace and silence until the last roll be called.

It was men of the stamp of Con Ahern who made the Nevada of today. Their ranks are being rapidly thinned and soon we will know of them but by the works they build. We look today across the hills of the Comstock and see many scars, overgrown with the greying sage, where once were massive hoisting works and where hundreds of men went to and fro in their daily toil. We know these properties today but in history and soon the same sage will alike cover the graves of all who made the history.

To the men of the stamp of Con Ahern we lift our hats in deference. Would that we could bring back the heroes of the past and line them with the heroes of today, that all might raise their hands in salute to these pioneers. Would that a grave could have been hollowed out on the rocky side of Mount Davidson and there be laid the body of the man who loved the Comstock as he loved his life, and perchance his rest would have been more peaceful and many would in the years to come stand by the lowly mound and think of him whose life was one great boost for the old time mining camp.—Carson News.

THE WRONG MEN.

THE satisfaction of England over the prospect of making American coasting vessels pay toll for passing the Panama canal is finding expression in curious ways. The last proposition is to erect a monument to Lincoln in London, and to place a statue of Washington in Westminster Abbey.

That is all very touching, but we suggest that it be changed to a monument to Mr. Wilson in the big city and a bust of Mr. Secretary Bryan in the sacred old abbey, for it is England's way to honor those who directly serve her. The proposition as put out ought to be a reminder to Englishmen of the late Senator Tabor's remark when he saw the picture of Shakespeare in his new grand opera house in Denver: "Who is that feller?" asked Tabor. When told that it was a picture of Shakespeare, Tabor muttered: "Shakespeare, Shakespeare; what the h—l did he ever do for Denver?"—Goodwin's Weekly.

Consistency may be a jewel but it is not one that sparkles around the average San Francisco newspaper office. Last Sunday a paper of that city devoted five columns of advice to the young, counselling them how to avoid the snares besetting the paths of youth, and then winds up with a column advertisement of a tobacco factory explaining how to "roll your own cigarettes" and thus produce "an energetic, self reliant, American type of manhood."

The papers throughout the State are busy these days announcing this one, that one and another as candidates for the different State offices at the next election. It will cost candidates for office the usual $10 to announce their candidacy in the Times, notwithstanding the hell-cracking purity of election law fixed up by the last legislature.—Yerington Times.

One year ago Tonopah experienced the coldest day in the records for March. The thermometer registered 14 as a sort of farewell to the most bitter winter experienced in this latitude.

King George does not appear to have much to say about the Ulster revolt. He probably has taken a shot of the "watchful waiting" policy.

Bryan is worrying now that Texas has offered a reward of $1000 for each of five Mexicans who invaded the sacred soil of the Lone Star State and murdered a citizen.

Poor old John Bull must have stubbed his toe, since he admits he cannot do anything with officers who show the white feather in times of war.

A San Francisco detective was bitten by a dachshund and sent to the hospital. This is stooping pretty low for even a detective.
